MapFactor Navigator reaches 30 million installs on the Android Play Store

MapFactor Navigator was installed for the 30 millionth time on Android devices this week. It has been providing Android users with free offline Navigation for three years and has become a favourite with millions of users. This is reflected by the fact that Navigator has remained the highest rated offline navigation app.

Navigator now covers over 200 countries in 35 languages and supports maps from both TomTom and OpenStreetMap. And the best news is that it is available for free.

But it would be nothing without its users. Many of the features and ideas that have made it a fantastic program have come from the community.
